BOOM LAUNCHED FOR GRAY OF DELEWARE

DESIRES FIGHT INSHIELDISHRDL DESIRES TO LEAD DEMOCRATIC TICKET BUT MIGHT TAKE
SECOND PLACE.

ON ANTI-INJUNCTION PLANK

Strong Fight Certain in Committee
on Resolutions and Possibly on Floor of Convention.

Denver, Colo., June 30.—Although
candidates for the nomination for
vice president on the democratic ticket are numerous, and despite the
fact that their number is likely to
be largely increased before a choice
is actually made, it is the general
opinion among leaders of the party
who are now here that if George Gray
of Delaware will declare his willingness to accept the second place on
the ticket he can have it.

Josiah Marvel of Wilmington, Del.,
manager of the Gray presidential
campaign, who arrived in Denver to-
night, will not, however, give his
consent. He insists that the Delaware
man is a candidate for first place, and
when it has been settled that he
can not have first place it will be
ample time to place him in running
for the secondary position, provided
he cares to take it. Mr. Marvel declines, however, that Judge Gray will
be satisfied with anything less than
the head of the ticket.

It is well known that Mr. Bryan
would be pleased to have Judge Gray
for the vice presidential candidate,
and the only thing that prevents the
latter from becoming a leading candidate for that position is the simple but all-powerful fact that he will
not declare himself to be a candidate at all.

The Gray presidential boom was
formally launched today and headquarters were opened in the Savoy Hotel. They were arranged some
hours in advance of the arrival of
Mr. Marvel, and during the early
part of the afternoon a corps of expert bill stickers were going about
the hotels putting up lithographs of
the Delaware candidate. No other
pictures have been produced as yet,
and the Gray men secured the most
prominent places in the lobbies of
all the leading hotels. The headquarters were thrown open after the
arrival of Manager Marvel, but be-
cause of the late hour at which he
put in an appearance the Gray boom
was not put into active operation. By
tomorrow, however, it is expected to
be in full swing.

The Johnson headquarters will not
be opened for several days and the
date on which the Bryan banners
will be thrown out has not yet been
determined, but it will be Saturday
or Sunday after the arrival of the Nebraska delegation.

Strong Fight Certain.

It is certain that there will be a
strong fight in the committee on resolutions, and possibly on the floor
of the convention itself over the anti-
injunction plank. Word has come indirectly from Lincoln that Mr. Bryan
is in favor of a plank of a somewhat
radical nature, and it is certain that
such men as Roger C. Sullivan, National committeeman from Illinois,
and Chairman Taggart of the Nation-
al committee are strongly opposed
to it. Sullivan gave out yesterday a
statement in which he favored "equal
right before the law," and used other
expressions of a similar charac-
ter, which were construed to mean
that he was opposed to a strong anti-
injunction plank. Sullivan denied that
he intended to convey the impression that he planned to fight the anti-
injunction plank, but it is generally
believed that he is against extra language in the part of the resolution.

$195,000,000 WILL BE DIS- BURSED TODAY

BOOM.

RAILROADS RECALL EMPLOYEES

Harriman Lines Resume Work Interrupted by Depression—Sedalia Shops Reopen.

Chicago, Ill., June 30.—Tomorrow
there will be distributed throughout
the United States a total of $195,000-000, made up largely of semi-annual
payments by public corporations,
such as railroads, large industrial
concerns and banks. This immense
volume of money, cut loose from
one end of the country to the other,
it is believed will start a great business revival.

It is expected to lead to widespread
investments and general improvements and will have a beneficial and
bracing effect in many ways. One important feature is that railroads, will
have no trouble in getting funds for
improvements and work is in sight
for thousands of idle men. At the present time the situation is peculiar
not only in the United States but in
all the great monetary centers of the
world. Money has never been more
plentiful. A large part of the money
is in gold.

The excess reserves in all the larger cities are now at the highest in the history of the country. Money
rates are exceptionally low for any
good collateral and any enterprise
that is honest can easily be financed.

ACKNOWLEDGES THE CORN.

Kansas City Star Sees Gloom and Breakers on the Republican Road to Success.

An editorial of the Kansas City Star of June 29 under the caption: "The Standing of Mr. Bryan in His Town and in the Country," contains the following which looks pretty good to a Democratic paper in Oklahoma.

"The changed attitude of Lincoln Neb., toward its foremost citizen, Mr. William J. Bryan, as told by a correspondent of the Star in yesterday's issue, has more than a local significance. It was inevitable that Lincoln should have regarded Mr. Bryan's first nomination to the presidency as a freak of politics. The town knew him only as a precocious orator, a 'spellbinder,' belonging to a class of politicians many of whose members make passing successes with superficial eloquence, arousing contempt among the thinking for the very reason that they have an irrational influence over the unthinking. Even in those days Mr. Bryan was not a mere 'spellbinder' but he had not yet demonstrated superior gifts. He had accomplished nothing to stamp him as a man of uncommon parts. His success in the Chicago convention was regarded by his fellow citizens of Lincoln as mere luck—good luck for him, bad luck for his party.

"Even now it cannot be said that Mr. Bryan has done anything of commanding importance. Of course, he has not had official power. He has no opportunity to put his policies into effect. On the other hand he has made innumerable speeches and has published a paper. He is better on his feet than with his pen—a good deal better. But in general Mr. Bryan has shown only the adaptability of the earnest plodder. However, his plodding has been upward. He has become steadier. He is much less the demagogue than he used to be. He is less insistent on his personal views. It is not in his nature to compromise on what he regards as essential principles, but he has learned the lesson of conciliation as a means of political success, and has come to realize that party success is essential to party power. In the meantime he has prospered and has shared his prosperity with his townspeople. He has manifested a local public spirit that speaks well for his ideas of still broader citizenship. Naturally the most marked change in attitude toward Mr. Bryan is in the immediate vicinity of his home.

"But the important thing in view of Mr. Bryan's assured nomination for the presidency, is that the country will take him more seriously than ever before; that he will not be regarded, even by a small class, as a joke; that he has become a more statesman-like publicist, a steadier politician. He will be a stronger opponent this year than any the republican party has had since Cleveland's time.

"It is better for the republican party, better for the republican nominee for the presidency, that these things should be understood. It is a pity they were not better understood by the delegates to the Chicago convention, for if they had been, that convention would not have omitted some of the planks proposed for its platform, and it would not have nominated Mr. James S. Sherman for vice president. As matters stand the republican side must depend almost wholly on the head of its ticket, a man who is splendidly equipped for the presidency, and whose qualifications, fortunately, have been demonstrated to the whole country.

Newspapers and Primary Law.

Guthrie, Ok., June 29.—How Oklahoma newspapers are meeting the new primary election law, requiring that all political advertising shall show who is ordering it, who pays for it and the price paid, is best told by notices which has appeared in the Chickasha Express and the Ada News. The Chickasha Express received an article from Speaker Murray endorsing the candidacy of Representative Riddle of that town for re-election to the house of representatives. It prints at the head of the article the following:

"This article is inserted at the request of Hon. W. H. Murray and is paid for by A. S. Riddle at the commercial rate of 5c per line or $1.40 for each insertion."

The Ada News takes another view of the situation and carries at the head of its political announcement column the following:

"Complying with the freak law that it shall indicate at the head of any political announcement or article or advertisement of any political candidacy, whether charge is made and if so, that the amount be specified, it is stated that no amount is charged nor will be accepted for the political announcements printed in this column."

If your advertising today were of some other store than your own, HOW WOULD IT IMPRESS YOU? Can you see your advertised self as others see you?

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is a medicine specifically prepared to reach these controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone, is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—Tablets or Liquid—and see what it can and will do for you. Druggist recommended and sold.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure it with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Heat prostrates the nerves In the summer one needs a tonic to off-set the customary hot weather Nerve and Strength depression. You will feel better within 48 hours after beginning to take such a remedy as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Its prompt action in restoring the weakened nerves is surprising. Of course, you won't get entirely strong in a few days, but each day you can actually feel the improvement. That tired, lifeless, spiritless feeling will quickly depart when using the Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will sharpen a failing appetite (it aids digestion); it will strengthen the weakened Kidneys and Heart by simply rebuilding the worn-out nerves that these organs depend upon. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by G. M. Ramsey.

On July 4th

We will celebrate the day by keeping our store open for the convenience of those needing antiseptics or medicines for the 4th of July accidents to the small boy with the toy pistol or fire crackers, or for the sick who need prescriptions filled or relief from pain or ache. THE HAPPY LIFE.

Happiness is largely to be found in the development of this universal self within each one of us. There is little need to advertise our friends to care for the individual self, with the imperious desires of the body and the acquired tastes of the mind. That part of our life is in no danger of neglect. But here is the larger self, the life we share with others, the one all-embracing life of God in which our lives exist, as the life-giving sap flows leaf of the tree, however different root and branch and leaves may appear. And just because our lives have this universal, divine element, the best men and women are never satisfied with those things that simply minister to the physical and intellectual life, but they are always seeking a larger realization of themselves in human brotherhood. Such a life has its sorrows; plenty of them, I suppose, since the larger our life is the more opportunities there are for pain to enter it. Yet the men and women who live such lives—and who is not blessed by the friendship of such—are they not to be called

The following unsolicited testimonial from one of Ada's leading physicians shows what people who are in position to know think of Ada Artesian water.

"I find the artesian water from your well a first class water, known as Potable water because it is free from impurities. It possesses temporary hardness, is free from Chlorine and Nitrates which shows that it passes through an impermeable strata which renders it free from contamination from sewage or nitrogenous matter.

SENATOR FROM ILLINOIS

According to present indications Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois will have a warm fight on his hands for re-election to his present office, as the friends of Congressman George E. Foss are urging him to become a candidate. Senator Hopkins succeeded William E. Mason in 1903 for the long term, having been a member of congress from 1885 up to that time. He is a graduate of Hillsdale, Mich., college, and is 62 years old.

HERE'S THE SIMPLE LIFE

COLONY PLANNED BY G. H. ANDER, IN MEXICO.

Little or No Clothes Will Be Worn by Followers—Says Life Will Be a Dream Instead of a Nightmare.

New York.—A "Simple Life Paradise Colony," where men, women and children will go about naked and where the men are never to cut their hair or beards, will be started this fall near Vera Cruz, Mexico, by Gustaf H. Ander, well known in the socialist and anarchist circles in this city. More than 50 persons have become his followers and have promised to sail for the tropics when he does.

Mr. Ander is spreading "simple life thoughts" and "paradise breezes," giving the plans for this unique colony, throughout the country, and expects by September 1 to collect at least 500 colonists who have the same "free" ideas that he has.

"When we get down to Mexico we will get rid of all the clothes that we can," Mr. Ander said. "Of course, some of us will hold on to a few bits, naturally. But before long, when we have all become pure in heart, we will have no need for even fig leaves.

"A person, I have observed after careful study, is always more healthful when he allows the air to circulate over skin, and we intend to turn out the healthiest, happiest human beings in the world. What good does all this clothing we wear do?

"Your body is now so choked up with starched clothing that fresh air cannot get to it. Then, too, there will be an enormous saving of time by not making clothes and the hours that would be consumed in that occupation can go to developing ourselves aesthetically."

For more than two years Mr. Ander allowed his hair to grow so that he shall be supremely fit for the colony. His beard falls to his waist and his hair, when unrolled, to the middle of his back.

"All of our men will refuse to cut either their beards or locks," he continued; "it is an insult to the laws of nature to do otherwise. Hair is for some use. Otherwise, why was it given us?

"I have concluded that hair must be in an intangible sort of way useful in communicating with the spirits around us. At all events, a lot of time is wasted in cutting hair. I presume that the women by not braiding their hair will save a lot of time, too.

"There will be no cooking to speak of. We will live on nuts and fruits. When fruits are not in season we will have to eat vegetables. But a student of nature can see that man was never meant to use anything but produce from the trees. Our walking upright shows that we were meant to reach up for edibles. If we were built like cows, then we might be expected to feed from the ground. Besides, there is very little effort required in raising fruit and nuts.

"Each colonist will be allowed to raise what he pleases. For example, I personally desire to raise coconuts. Six acres accommodates 200 coconut trees, and as each tree drops about one a day, I should have about 70,000 coconuts, each having an exchange value of 1 cent.

"In fact, life will be a dream instead of a nightmare. There'll be no cooking and little washing. All women will have to do is to love and sleep.

"The state, which is a poor name for the colonists' official assemblage, will decide who are fit to be man and wife. Men and women will be united with a view to begetting the finest children. If the offspring does not turn out as it should, then the parents will be remanded.

"There will be no limit on children in this colony. Each couple will have as many babies as they want! They won't have pigs to raise, so they may devote their attention to youngsters. These won't have to be fed or clothed any more than pigs, so they won't be much trouble.

"We won't even have to bother to name the children. What good is a name except in competition and business? We won't have any books to keep.

"Education outside of that which concerns the beautiful in life will be disregarded. What does education do now but teach one to go out and beat the other man?

"We have developed to the degree that we can get along without depending on lower creatures, such as horses, cattle, pigs, and chickens, for support. 'No, we will not even have cows; at least, that is our present view, for every drop of milk we take means robbing so much from the calf.

"Tobacco and liquor may be used if any one wishes them. But people will become so clean lived when they get close to nature that they'll not want stimulants.

"I am making an attempt to get some inebriate millionaires to go down south with us, so they may become respectable human beings.

"Our colony will be located probably near Vera Cruz, where there are 50,000 acres available. The site is on the banks of a navigable river and the gulf of Mexico is close by."

James Eads How, the millionaire hobo, is among those interested in Ander's scheme. Mr. Ander is a Swede and was a government clerk in Sweden.

GIRLS TO SACRIFICE SCALP.

Will Contribute Skin and Hair to Aid Unfortunate Fellow Worker.

New York.—So that Miss Catherine Gorman, cashier in a department store in Brooklyn, may come out of the hospital with a full head of hair, more than a hundred department store girls will sacrifice from a quarter to one inch of scalp each, with long, flowing locks attached.

Miss Gorman's hair caught in a cash register May 15 and most of it was pulled out by the roots. Physicians at the hospital at first suggested a wig as the best means to cover the bare spot on her head, but she objected to this and it was decided that the grafting process should be tried. Her friends in the store readily consented to supply the necessary pieces of scalp. Girls with hair nearly the color of Miss Gorman's will be the first to make the sacrifice, but the physicians say it will be impossible to get all the hair alike. So after the new scalp has healed they will dye the hair any color Miss Gorman may desire.

It is expected that it will take a year to complete the operation, as only small portions of the new scalp will be put on at a time. As soon as one piece begins to root another of the same size will be taken from another volunteer, and so on until the operation is completed.

BASEBALL WINS HIM VOTE.

Judge Grants Naturalization Papers to Well Postaged Fan.

Norristown, Pa.—Because he knew the positions of all the clubs of the two major baseball leagues the naturalization court judges, sitting here, considered Edward Wilhelm Lawrence sufficiently versed in American institutions to be worthy of full citizenship.

Oddly, too, despite his middle name, Lawrence is a native of Ireland, from which country he came 36 years ago, and has been living in Norristown the greater part of that time.

Having answered the test questions propounded by the government expert, and having manifestly acquainted himself with general affairs, the baseball situation was taken up, and Lawrence made a home run in proving that he was a good American.

SENIORS GREAT KISSERS.

160 Princetonians Admit the Soft Impeachment.

New York.—The annual statistics of the Princeton senior class of 200 show that 27 claim to be engaged, and there are two "Has Beens." Thirty-six have been arrested, and 160 confess that they have kissed girls. Seven have supported themselves wholly through college; 158 in part.

The favorite girls' college is Wellesley, with Radcliffe second. The most popular professor is Harry Garfield, who goes to Williams next fall. The honors in the class rest with the president, Chalmers Hamill, who is selected as the most popular, the most respected and the most polite. McCormick, Harlan and Connors come in for honors as the athletes in the three major sports.

"A love for gamblin' was born about the time that human nature first opened its eyes. A disposition to steal somethin' was born just a few moments before, but a man may gamble and not be a thief. There is such a thing as an honest gambler—that is, a gambler who is willing to give a man a fair chance—to lose his money. The gambler wants your money, and it ain't much trouble for him to accommodate his conscience as to the way he gets it. If he is sharper than you are he compliments himself with the fact that he understands his business, and every man that has a trade likes to know its details better than the other man does."

Thus spoke old Limuel to a few friends who were gathered about the fireside in the Jucklin home. The wind was howling and the snow, like shredded sheets, was flying past the windows.

"But you don't believe that all gamblers are thieves?" remarked old man Brizintine.

"I said I didn't. But there ain't nothin' that will strain a man's honesty more than gamblin' will."

"That's been preached on many a time," Brizintine spoke up. "But I never gambled in my life, and—"

"And you don't know just how far you are honest," Lim broke in.

"Didn't think you did," replied Jucklin. "But I can explain. The man that gambles has more temptations to steal than any other man. When he has lost everything a strong resentment arises against life. It is almost impossible for him to believe that he has been fairly beaten, and if he is broad enough to acknowledge this he then questions Fate for her one-sidedness. He wants to know what right she's got to discriminate so against him."

"Unfortunately for man, work was put on him as a curse. The fact is, it ennobles him, but he accepted it as a curse. And when his brother has committed a crime, not grave enough to hang him, he says: 'I will sentence you to work.' In the olden times a man that worked wasn't respected as much as the highwayman. They hanged the robber, it is true, but they respected him more than they did the man that handled the hoe. And the gambler is a sort of social highwayman. I don't say he is a bad feller. In many instances he persuades himself to believe that his profession is right. He puts up his money, takes chances, and if he wins he has come by the money as honestly as if he had dug in the ground for it—he thinks. And as long as he wins he may be honest. But his principles undergo a change when he begins to lose. Then he can't help feelin' that he is givin' the other feller too much show. When he has lost all he must have money in order to carry on his business. Suppose he is employed to collect money—suppose he is in a bank. If he refrains from takin' money to gamble with he is honest—desperately honest, you might say. And he may refrain day after day—for years; but some day he may find himself weak. This weakness may consist of an overconfidence in self—in an overabundance of hope, in a faith that he will win and can pay back. Right there he is gone. Think you are strong enough to stand such a temptation as that, Brother Brizintine?"

"I would not use any man's money," Brizintine answered. "I surely have sense enough to know what is my own, and knowing what is not my own I have honesty enough not to take it."

"Yes," replied Jucklin, "and what you have said is the answer that nine out of ten men would make—and honestly, too. But the fact is, you don't know."

"What! do you mean to say I don't know whether or not I'm honest?"

"Do you know, Brother Jucklin?"

"Well, I'll tell you just how far I know. Many years ago I was workin' at a mill that took in a good deal of money. Finally they gave me charge of it. Along about that time a party of us used to meet two or three times a week to play a social game of poker. It got to be so sociable that it kept me broke. I knew that it was largely a game of luck and that the cards would break even after awhile, and that may be true, in the long run, but the run is too long. In the course of a thousand years they might have broke even, but as it was, they broke with just enough promise to hold me tied in fascination to the game. I began to borrow money—and it took all of my wages to pay it back. One night I went over to meet the boys. I didn't have a cent of my own, and I wouldn't have gone if I hadn't thought that some one would lend me enough to get into the game. But everyone hemmed and hawed and spoke of the extreme need for money, of hard times and the like—the very men who had week after week got all of my wages. Just then it flashed across me that in my pocket were more than a hundred dollars belongin'

to the mill. With this amount as a backin' I felt sure that I could win back some of the money I had lost. It was perfectly plain—I could do it. At some stage of the game I had nearly always been ahead, but wouldn't quit. But why couldn't I quit? The other fellers jumped, and with my money. Why couldn't I do the same? I broke out in a sweat. I strove to bring up arguments against my sitting in the game and couldn't. Luck whispered that it was with me, and it didn't seem possible that I could lose. Never before had I felt so strongly that it was my night. I arose and walked up and down the room. I could hear my blood singin'. I turned and looked at the boys, each one with an expression of eagerness on his face. I felt myself superior to them. I could beat them. There they sat, completely within the power of my skill and my luck. I could win enough to pay back the money that I owed, and with my wages I could buy clothes—and I needed 'em. Suddenly I rushed out of the house, and I ran—ran all the way to the home of the mill owner—snatched his money out of my pocket and gave it to him. I told him what I had gone through with, and he turned pale and took hold of the mantelpiece to steady himself. 'My son,' said he, 'I have been all along there, only I didn't run away—until afterward. They caught me and brought me back, and it was only by the grace of—of human nature that I didn't go to the penitentiary.' In the company there were three young fellows. The old man's recital had moved them. "And did you play again, Uncle Lim?" one of them inquired.

"No, I didn't. And although it may appear narrow in me, but let me say that a playin' card shan't come into my house. In itself a deck of cards is innocent enough, and so is a bottle of liquor if you don't drink it. It is true, though, so far as my experience counts, that nearly every gambler begins in a social way, without any thought of becomin' one. Very few of them set out with the aim to make gamblin' their profession. Take horses, for instance. Nearly all men like a fine horse—like to see him run. They develop a judgment as to the runnin' qualities of a horse and finally are willin' to back it up with money. Whose business is it? The money belongs to them and was honestly earned. Understand, now, I ain't a preachin' a moral sermon for I ain't fitted for that. I just want to talk in a human nature sort of way for the benefit of these boys. Don't bet on anything. That's the safest plan. If there's no fun in goin' to horse races unless you bet, don't go."

"But haven't you bet on roosters?" old Brizintine inquired, looking wise.

"Well, I have seen the feathers fly from the wrong chicken," Lim answered. "And if I have bet, and have seen the evil of it, I am all the fitter to talk to these young chaps. Boys, if you don't want to be on trial all your life, don't bet on anything."

By Charles Battell Loomis

lives in Brooklyn.

Papa—He is a New Yorker.

Child—Well, if a Portuguese lived in the Bronx?

Papa—He would be a New Yorker. Of course, my child, in a large sense, all inhabitants of the state of New York are New Yorkers, but, generally speaking, by the term New Yorker is meant one who lives in the city of New York, and that is why a Chinaman out on Staten island is a New Yorker.

Child—Papa, does a man have to be a foreigner in order to live in New York?

Papa—What a question, my child. Of course not. There are many living in New York whose native language is English.

Child—Oh, they were born there?

Papa—Not necessarily. Some were born in Great Britain and Ireland and some in the British possessions, but they all speak English and they live in New York and are New Yorkers.

Child—Then, if I understand you aright, my dear father, a man who lives in New York and who speaks English must have been born either in Great Britain, Ireland, or somewhere in the British possessions.

Papa—Not at all. There are native Americans who speak English and who live in New York.

Child—And where are they from?

Papa—Some were born in New England, some on the Pacific coast, some in the middle west and some in the south.

Child—Then they are the real New Yorkers.

Papa—Not necessarily. Any man who lives in New York for any length of time becomes a New Yorker, no matter where he may have been born. When he travels he registers from New York.

Child—Is it in the air?

Papa—It is in the air. The westerner despises New York until he has made a fortune, and then he comes to New York to spend it, and after that he is a New Yorker. The southerner who has come to New York to live may say that he was born in the south, and if he doesn't his tongue will do it for him, but he glories in being a citizen of New York. The New Englander feels that he has honored New York by coming to it and that without him New York would not amount to much, but he, too, signs

his name in the register as from New York.

Child—Well, papa, you have told me about foreigners who were New Yorkers, and about English-speaking people who were New Yorkers and about Americans who were New Yorkers, but I want to know if there couldn't be a more perfect kind of New Yorker than any of these—one who was born in New York and who spoke English?

Papa—Why, yes, my child; there are thousands born in New York who speak English. They are hard and fast New Yorkers. Their parents were Germans and Italians and Frenchmen and Jews and Greeks, but they were born in New York and they speak English.

Child—Then, papa, they are the real New Yorkers, aren't they?

Papa—Well, I believe that they are considered to be the most patriotic New Yorkers because their New Yorkism is so new; but, my child, in this city of which we are speaking, this city of nearly 4,000,000 inhabitants, there is a little class, without much influence, to be sure, but still self-respecting and respected by others, a mere handful, it is true, but a very intelligent handful.

Child—And who are they, papa?

Papa—They, my child, are the native American New Yorkers, whose parents and grandparents and great-grandparents, to the third and fourth generation, were born and brought up in New York.

Child—And who always spoke English?

Papa—Well, no. They spoke Dutch originally, but they have spoken English longer than the majority of the rest. Those are the real New Yorkers.

Child—I never heard of them. Where do they keep themselves?

Papa—One of them is the president of the United States.

Child—Oh, yes, of course. So he is a Simon-pure New Yorker?

Papa—Well, no; come to think of it, he isn't, because I believe his mother was a southerner.

Child—Well, do the Simon-pure New Yorkers sign their names as from New York?

Papa—Yes, my boy, they do, and they would like to be able to sign in a special colored ink to make it more emphatic.

Child—Well, papa, I suppose that if they could have kept out the foreigners and the English-speaking aliens and the Yankees and the southerners and the westerners, and just left New York for the real born and bred New Yorkers, New York would be even greater than it is?

Papa—No, no, my boy. No city ever gets to the top of the pile unaided. It is because of all these people who have come in to show New York how to misgovern itself that she is the greatest city on the western hemisphere and is destined to be the greatest city that the sun ever shone upon.

Child—And what will become of the real New York New Yorkers?

Papa—They will disappear after a while.

Child—Why, papa?

Papa—Because it is getting to be the fashion to be born in the country. Child—Oh!

BOOM LAUNCHED FOR GRAY OF DELEWARE

DESIRE LIGHT INSULATION
DESIRE TO LEAD DEMOCRATIC
TICKET BUT MIGHT TAKE

ON ANTI-INUNCTION PLANK

Strong Plank Certain in Committee
on Resolutions and Possibly on
Floor of Convention.

Denver, Colo. June 30.—Although
conducted in the nomination for
vice president on the democratic ticket the numerous and despite the
fact that their number is likely to
be largely increased before a choice
is actually made it is the general
opinion among leaders of the party
that the anti-injunction plank will be adopted. It is believed that the Democratic will declare his willingness to accept the second place on
the ticket he can have it.

to the M. L. C. A. V. M. to D. I.
manager of the C. A. V. M. and campaign who moved in Denver to night will not however say his
cons at the insistence that the Delaware
man is a candidate for first place and
when it has been settled that he
can no longer place in all be able to free him in running for the second position. The members to take it Mr. M. L. C. A. V. M.
does however that Judge C. A. V. M.
is satisfied with anything to be
the head of the ticket.

It is well known that Mr. Bryan
would be pleased to have Judge Gray
as the vice presidential candidate
and the only thing that prevents the
fact from becoming a leading candidate for that position is the simple fact that he will not
not decline himself to be a candidate in all.

The C. A. V. M. presidential boom was
formally launched today and headquarters were opened in the Sycamore
Hotel. They were arranged sometimes in advance of the arrival of Mr. Marvel and during the only
out of the afternoon a corps of expert bill stickers were going about
the hotels putting up lithographs of
the Delaware candidate. No other
pictures have been produced as yet
and the Gray men secured the most
prominent places in the lobbies of
all the leading hotels. The head-
quarters were thrown open after the
arrival of Manager Marvel but be-
cause of the late hour at which he
put in an appearance the Gray boom
was not put into active operation. By
tomorrow, however it is expected to
be in full swing.

The Johnson headquarters will not
be opened for several days and the
date on which the Bryan banners
will be thrown out has not yet been
determined but it will be Saturday
or Sunday after the arrival of the Nebraska delegation.

Strong light certain.

It is certain that there will be a
strong fight in the committee on res-
olutions and possibly on the floor
of the convention itself over the anti-
injunction plank. Word has come in
directly from Lincoln that Mr. Bryan
is in favor of a plank of a somewhat
radical nature and it is certain that
such men as Roger C. Sullivan, National committeeman from Illinois
and Chairman Taggart of the Nation-
al committee are strongly opposed
to it. Sullivan gave out yesterday a
statement in which he favored equal
right before the law and used other
expressions of a similar charac-
ter which were construed to mean
that he was opposed to a strong anti-
injunction plank. Sullivan denied that
he intended to convey the impres-
sion that he planned to fight the anti-
injunction plank but it is generally
believed that he is against extra language in the part of the resolution.

ACKNOWLEDGES THE CORN.

Kansas City Star sees Gloom and Breakers on the Republican Road to Success.

An editorial on the Kansas City Star of June 29 under the caption: "The Standing of Mr. Bryan in His Town and in the Country," contains the following which looks pretty good to a Democratic paper in Oklahoma.

"The changed attitude of Lincoln Neb., toward its foremost citizen, Mr. William J. Bryan, as told by a correspondent of the Star in yesterday's issue, has more than a local significance. It was inevitable that Lincoln should have regarded Mr. Bryan's first nomination to the presidency as a freak of politics. The town knew him only as a precocious orator, a 'spellbinder,' belonging to a class of politicians many of whose members make passing successes with superficial eloquence, arousing contempt among the thinking for the very reason that they have an irrational influence over the unthinking. Even in those days Mr. Bryan was not a mere 'spellbinder' but he had not yet demonstrated superior gifts. He had accomplished nothing to stamp him as a man of uncommon parts. His success in the Chicago convention was regarded by his fellow citizens of Lincoln as mere luck—good luck for him, bad luck for his party.

"Even now it cannot be said that Mr. Bryan has done anything of commanding importance. Of course, he has not had official power. He has no opportunity to put his policies into effect. On the other hand he has made innumerable speeches and has published a paper. He is better on his feet than with his pen—a good deal better. But in general Mr. Bryan has shown only the adaptability of the earnest plodder. However, his plodding has been upward. He has become steadier. He is much less the demagogue than he used to be. He is less insistent on his personal views. It is not in his nature to compromise on what he regards as essential principles, but he has learned the lesson of conciliation as a means of political success, and has come to realize that party success is essen-

to party power. In the meantime he has prospered and has shared
his prosperity with his townspeople.
He has manifested a local public spirit that speaks well for his ideas of still broader citizenship. Naturally the most marked change in attitude toward Mr. Bryan is in the immediate vicinity of his home.

That the important thing in view of Mr. Bryan's assured nomination for the presidency, is that the country
will take him more seriously than ever before, that he will not be regarded, even by a small class, as a joke, that he has become a more
statesman-like publicist, a steadier
politician. He will be a stronger opponent this year than any the republican party has had since Cleveland's time.

"It is better for the republican party, better for the republican nominee for the presidency, that these things should be understood. It is a pity they were not better understood
by the delegates to the Chicago convention, for if they had been, that convention would not have omitted
some of the planks proposed for its
platform, and it would not have nominated Mr. James S. Sherman for vice president. As matters stand the republican side must depend almost wholly on the head of its ticket, a man who is splendidly equipped for
the presidency, and whose qualifications, fortunately, have been demonstrated to the whole country.

Newspapers and Primary Law.

Guthrie, Ok., June 29.—How Oklahoma newspapers are meeting the
new primary election law, requiring
that all political advertising shall
show who is ordering it, who pays
for it and the price paid, is best told
by notices which have appeared in
the Chickasha Express and the Ada
News. The Chickasha Express received an article from Speaker Murray endorsing the candidacy of Representative Riddle of that town for
re-election to the house of representatives. It prints at the head of
the article the following:

"This article is inserted at the request of Hon. W. H. Murray and is
paid for by A. S. Riddle at the commercial rate of 5c per line or $1.40
for each insertion."

The Ada News takes another view
of the situation and carries at the
head of its political announcement
column the following:

"Complying with the freak law that
it shall indicate at the head of any
political announcement or article or
advertisement of any political candi-
dacy, whether charge is made and if
so, that the amount be specified, it is
stated that no amount is charged nor
will be accepted for the political announcements printed in this column."

If your advertising today were of
some other store than your own,
HOW WOULD IT IMPRESS YOU?
Can you see your advertised self as
others see you?

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney nerves. The kidneys, like the heart, and the
stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ
itself, but in the nerves that control and guide
and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is
a medicine specifically prepared to reach these
controlling nerves. To doctor the kidneys alone is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine
is cloudy, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms
of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kidney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—

do for you. Druggists recommend and sell.

There is more Catarrh in this sec-

doctors pronounced it a local disease

HERE'S THE SIMPLE LIFE

COLONY PLANNED BY G. H. ANDER, IN MEXICO.

Little or No Clothes Will Be Worn by Followers—Says Life Will Be a Dream Instead of a Nightmare.

New York.—A "Simple Life Paradise Colony," where men, women and children will go about naked and where the men are never to cut their hair or beards, will be started this fall near Vera Cruz, Mexico, by Gustaf H. Ander, well known in the socialist and anarchist circles in this city. More than 50 persons have become his followers and have promised to sail for the tropics when he does.

Mr. Ander is spreading "simple life thoughts" and "paradise breezes," giving the plans for this unique colony, throughout the country, and expects by September 1 to collect at least 500 colonists who have the same "free" ideas that he has.

will get rid of all the clothes that we can," Mr. Ander said. "Of course, some of us will hold on to a few bits, naturally. But before long, when we have all become pure in heart, we will have no need for even fig leaves."

"A person, I have observed after careful study, is always more healthful when he allows the air to circulate over skin, and we intend to turn out the healthiest, happiest human beings in the world. What good does all this clothing we wear do?"

"Your body is now so choked up with starched clothing that fresh air cannot get to it. Then, too, there will be an enormous saving of time by not making clothes and the hours that would be consumed in that occupation can go to developing ourselves aesthetically."

For more than two years Mr. Ander allowed his hair to grow so that he shall be supremely fit for the colony. His beard falls to his waist and his hair, when unrolled, to the middle of his back.

"All of our men will refuse to cut either their beards or locks," he continued; "it is an insult to the laws of

GIRLS TO SACRIFICE SCALP.

Will Contribute Skin and Hair to Aid Unfortunate Fellow Worker.

New York.—So that Miss Catherine Gorman, cashier in a department store in Brooklyn, may come out of the hospital with a full head of hair, more than a hundred department store girls will sacrifice from a quarter to one inch of scalp each, with long, flowing locks attached.

Miss Gorman's hair caught in a cash register May 15 and most of it was pulled out by the roots. Physicians at the hospital at first suggested a wig as the best means to cover the bare spot on her head, but she objected to this and it was decided that the grafting process should be tried. Her friends in the store readily consented to supply the necessary pieces of scalp. Girls with hair nearly the color of Miss Gorman's will be the first to make the sacrifice, but the physicians say it will be impossible to get all the hair alike. So after the new scalp has healed they will dye the hair any color Miss Gorman may desire.

It is expected that it will take a year to complete the operation, as only small portions of the new scalp will be put on at a time. As soon as one piece begins to root another of the same size will be taken from another volunteer, and so on until the operation is completed.

Judge Grants Naturalization Papers to Well-Posted Fan.

Norristown, Pa.—Because he knew the positions of all the clubs of the two major baseball leagues the naturalization court judges, sitting here, considered Edward Wilhelm Lawrence sufficiently versed in American institutions to be worthy of full citizenship.

Oddly, too, despite his middle name, Lawrence is a native of Ireland, from which country he came 36 years ago, and has been living in Norristown the greater part of that time.

Having answered the test questions propounded by the government expert, and having manifestly acquainted himself with general affairs, the baseball situation was taken up, and Lawrence made a home run in proving that he was a good American.

SENIORS GREAT KISSERS.

160 Princetonians Admit the Soft Impeachment.

New York.—The annual statistics of the Princeton senior class of 300 show that 37 claim to be engaged, and there are two "Has Beens." Thirty-six have been arrested, and 160 confess that they have kissed girls. Seven have supported themselves wholly through college; 158 in part.

The favorite girls' college is Wellesley, with Radcliffe second. The most popular professor is Harry Garfield, who goes to Williams next fall. The honors in the class rest with the president, Chalmers Hamill, who is selected as the most popular, the most respected and the most polite. McCormick, Harlan and Connors come in for honors as the athletes in the three major sports.

nature to do otherwise. Hair is for some use. Otherwise, why was it given us?

"I have concluded that hair must be in an intangible sort of way useful in communicating with the spirits around us. At all events, a lot of time is wasted in cutting hair. I presume that the women by not braiding their hair will save a lot of time, too."

"There will be no cooking to speak of. We will live on nuts and fruits. When fruits are not in season we will have to eat vegetables. But a student of nature can see that man was never meant to use anything but produce from the trees. Our walking upright shows that we were meant to reach up for edibles. If we were built like cows, then we might be expected to feed from the ground. Besides, there is very little effort required in raising fruit and nuts."

"Each colonist will be allowed to raise what he pleases. For example, I personally desire to raise coconuts. Six acres accommodates 200 coconut trees, and as each tree drops about one a day, I should have above 70,000 coconuts, each having an exchange value of 1 cent."

"In fact, life will be a dream instead of a nightmare. There'll be no cooking and little washing. All women will have to do is to love and sleep."

"The state, which is a poor name for the colonists' official assemblage, will decide who are fit to be man and wife. Men and women will be united with a view to begetting the finest children. If the offspring does not turn out as it should, then the parents will be remated."

"There will be no limit on children in this colony. Each couple will have as many babies as they want! They won't have pigs to raise, so they may devote their attention to youngsters. These won't have to be fed or clothed any more than pigs, so they won't be much trouble."

"We won't even have to bother to name the children. What good is a name except in competition and business? We won't have any books to keep."

"We have developed to the degree that we can get along without depending on lower creatures, such as horses, cattle, pigs, and chickens, for support."

"No, we will not even have cows; at least, that is our present view, for every drop of milk we take means robbing so much from the calf."

"Tobacco and liquor may be used if any one wishes them. But people will become so clean lived when they get close to nature that they'll not want stimulants."

"I am making an attempt to get some inebriate millionaires to go down south with us, so they may become respectable human beings."

"Our colony will be located probably near Vera Cruz, where there are 50,000 acres available. The site is on the banks of a navigable river and the gulf of Mexico is close by."

James Eads How, the millionaire hobo, is among those interested in Ander's scheme. Mr. Ander is a Swede and was a government clerk in Sweden.

"A love for gamblin' was born about the time that human nature first opened its eyes. A disposition to steal somethin' was born just a few moments before, but a man may gamble and not be a thief. There is such a thing as an honest gambler—that is, a gambler who is willing to give a man a fair chance—to lose his money. The gambler wants your money, and it ain't much trouble for him to accommodate his conscience as to the way he gets it. If he is sharper than you are he compliments himself with the fact that he understands his business, and every man that has a trade likes to know its details better than the other man does."

Thus spoke old Limuel to a few friends who were gathered about the fireside in the Jucklin home. The wind was howling and the snow, like shredded sheets, was flying past the windows.

"But you don't believe that all gamblers are thieves?" remarked old man Brizintine.

"I said I didn't. But there ain't nothin' that will strain a man's honesty more than gamblin' will."

"That's been preached on many a time," Brizintine spoke up. "But I never gambled in my life, and—"

"And you don't know just how far you are honest," Lim broke in.

"Didn't think you did," replied Jucklin. "But I can explain. The man that gambles has more temptations to steal than any other man. When he has lost everything a strong resentment arises against life. It is almost impossible for him to believe that he has been fairly beaten, and if he is broad enough to acknowledge this he then questions Fate for her one-sidedness. He wants to know what right she's got to discriminate so against him."

"Unfortunately for man, work was put on him as a curse. The fact is, it ennobles him, but he accepted it as a curse. And when his brother has committed a crime, not grave enough to hang him, he says: 'I will sentence you to work.' In the old times a man that worked wasn't respected as much as the highwayman. They hanged the robber, it is true, but they respected him more than they did the man that handled the hoe. And the gambler is a sort of social highwayman. I don't say he is a bad fellow. In many instances he persuades himself to believe that his profession is right. He puts up his money, takes chances, and if he wins he has come by the money as honestly as if he had dug in the ground for it—he thinks. And as long as he wins he may be honest. But his principles undergo a change when he begins to lose. Then he can't help feelin' that he is givin' the other fellow too much show. When he has lost all he must have money in order to carry on his business. Suppose he is employed to collect money—suppose he is in a bank. If he refrains from takin' money to gamble with he is honest—desperately honest, you might say. And he may refrain day after day—for years; but some day he may find himself weak. This weakness may consist of an overconfidence in self—in an overabundance of hope, in a faith that he will win and can pay back. Right there he is gone. Think you are strong enough to stand such a temptation as that, Brother Brizintine?"

"I would not use any man's money," Brizintine answered. "I surely have sense enough to know what is my own, and knowing what is not my own I have honesty enough not to take it."

"What! do you mean to say I don't know whether or not I'm honest?"

"Well, I'll tell you just how far I know. Many years ago I was workin' at a mill that took in a good deal of money. Finally they gave me charge of it. Along about that time a party of us used to meet two or three times a week to play a social game of poker. It got to be so sociable that it kept me broke. I knew that it was largely a game of luck and that the cards would break even after awhile, and that may be true, in the long run, but the run is too long. In the course of a thousand years they might have broke even, but as it was, they broke with just enough promise to hold me tied in fascination to the game. I began to borrow money—and it took all of my wages to pay it back. One night I went over to meet the boys. I didn't have a cent of my own, and I wouldn't have gone if I hadn't thought that some one would lend me enough to get into the game. But everyone hemmed and hawed and spoke of the extreme need for money, of hard times and the like—the very men who had week after week got all of my wages. Just then it flashed across me that in my pocket were more than a hundred dollars belongin'

to the mill. With this amount as a backin' I felt sure that I could win back some of the money I had lost. It was perfectly plain—I could do it. At some stage of the game I had nearly always been ahead, but wouldn't quit. But why couldn't I quit? The other fellows jumped, and with my money. Why couldn't I do the same? I broke out in a sweat. I strove to bring up arguments against my sitting in the game and couldn't. Luck whispered that it was with me, and it didn't seem possible that I could lose. Never before had I felt so strongly that it was my night. I arose and walked up and down the room. I could hear my blood slogin'. I turned and looked at the boys, each one with an expression of eagerness on his face. I felt myself superior to them. I could beat them. There they sat, completely within the power of my skill and my luck. I could win enough to pay back the money that I owed, and with my wages I could buy clothes—and I needed 'em. Suddenly I rushed out of the house, and I ran—ran all the way to the home of the mill owner—snatched his money out of his pocket and gave it to him. I told him what I had gone through with, and he turned pale and took hold of the mantelpiece to steady himself. 'My son,' said he, 'I have been all along there, only I didn't run away—until afterward. They caught me and brought me back, and it was only by the grace of—of human nature that I didn't go to the penitentiary.'

In the company there were three

young fellows. The old man's recital had moved them. "And did you play again, Uncle Lim?" one of them inquired.

"No, I didn't. And although it may appear narrow in me, but let me say that a playin' card shan't come into my house. In itself a deck of cards is innocent enough, and so is a bottle of Hicker if you don't drink it. It is true, though, so far as my experience counts, that nearly every gambler begins in a social way, without any thought of becomin' one. Very few of them set out with the aim to make gamblin' their profession. Take horses, for instance. Nearly all men like a fine horse—like to see him run. They develop a judgment as to the runnin' qualities of a horse and finally are willin' to back it up with money. Whose business is it? The money belongs to them and was honestly earned. Understand, now, I ain't preachin' a moral sermon for I ain't fitted for that. I just want to talk in a human nature sort of way for the benefit of these boys. Don't bet on anything. That's the safest plan. If there's no fun in goin' to horse races unless you bet, don't go."

"But haven't you bet on roosters?" old Brizintine inquired, looking wise.

"Well, I have seen the feathers fly from the wrong chicken," Lim answered. "And if I have bet, and have seen the evil of it, I am all the fitter to talk to these young chaps. Boys, if you don't want to be on trial all your life, don't bet on anything."

By Charles Battell Loomis

HILD—Papa, what is a New Yorker? Papa—My child, a New Yorker is one who lives in New York—who has his residence there. A New Yorker may be a Chinaman from Pell street, or a Polish Jew from Rivington street, or a Syrian from Washington street, or an Italian from the Italian quarter, or a Greek or Jap or Swede or any nationality at all, provided he lives in New York city.

Child—Well, suppose a Russian lives in Brooklyn.

Papa—He is a New Yorker.

Child—Well, if a Portuguese lived in the Bronx?

Papa—He would be a New Yorker. Of course, my child, in a large sense, all inhabitants of the state of New York are New Yorkers, but, generally speaking, by the term New Yorker is meant one who lives in the city of New York, and that is why a Chinaman out on Staten Island is a New Yorker.

Child—Papa, does a man have to be a foreigner in order to live in New York?

Papa—What a question, my child. Of course not. There are many living in New York whose native language is English.

Child—Oh, they were born there?

Papa—Not necessarily. Some were born in Great Britain and Ireland and some in the British possessions, but they all speak English and they live in New York and are New Yorkers.

Child—Then, if I understand you aright, my dear father, a man who lives in New York and who speaks English must have been born either in Great Britain, Ireland, or somewhere in the British possessions.

Papa—Not at all. There are native Americans who speak English and who live in New York.

Child—And where are they from?

Papa—Some were born in New England, some on the Pacific coast, some in the middle west and some in the south.

Child—Then they are the real New Yorkers.

Papa—Not necessarily. Any man who lives in New York for any length of time becomes a New Yorker, no matter where he may have been born. When he travels he registers from New York.

Child—Is it in the air?

Papa—It is in the air. The westerner despises New York until he has made a fortune, and then he comes to New York to spend it, and after that he is a New Yorker. The southerner who has come to New York to live may say that he was born in the south, and if he doesn't his tongue will do it for him, but he glories in being a citizen of New York. The New Englander feels that he has honored New York by coming to it and that without him New York would not amount to much, but he, too, signs

his name in the register as from New York.

Child—Well, papa, you have told me about foreigners who were New Yorkers, and about English-speaking people who were New Yorkers and about Americans who were New Yorkers, but I want to know if there couldn't be a more perfect kind of New Yorker than any of these—one who was born in New York and who spoke English?

Papa—Why, yes, my child; there are thousands born in New York who speak English. They are hard and fast New Yorkers. Their parents were Germans and Italians and Frenchmen and Jews and Greeks, but they were born in New York and they speak English.

Child—Then, papa, they are the real New Yorkers, aren't they?

Papa—Well, I believe that they are considered to be the most patriotic New Yorkers because their New Yorkism is so new; but, my child, in this city of which we are speaking, this city of nearly 4,000,000 inhabitants, there is a little class, without much influence, to be sure, but still self-respecting and respected by others, a mere handful, it is true, but a very intelligent handful.

Child—And who are they, papa?

Papa—They, my child, are the native American New Yorkers, whose parents and grandparents and great-grandparents, to the third and fourth generation, were born and brought up in New York.

Child—And who always spoke English?

Papa—Well, no. They spoke Dutch originally, but they have spoken English longer than the majority of the rest. Those are the real New Yorkers.

Child—I never heard of them. Where do they keep themselves?

Papa—One of them is the president of the United States.

Child—Oh, yes, of course. So he is a Simon-pure New Yorker?

Papa—Well, no; come to think of it, he isn't, because I believe his mother was a southerner.

Child—Well, do the Simon-pure New Yorkers sign their names as from New York?

Papa—Yes, my boy, they do, and they would like to be able to sign in a special colored ink to make it more emphatic.

Child—Well, papa, I suppose that if they could have kept out the foreigners and the English-speaking aliens and the Yankees and the southerners and the westerners, and just left New York for the real born and bred New Yorkers, New York would be even greater than it is?

Papa—No, no, my boy. No city ever gets to the top of the pile unaided. It is because of all these people who have come in to show New York how to misgovern itself that she is the greatest city on the western hemisphere and is destined to be the greatest city that the sun ever shone upon.

Child—And what will become of the real New York New Yorkers?

Papa—They will disappear after a while.

Child—Why, papa?

Papa—Because it is getting to be the fashion to be born in the country.

Child—Oh!

BOOM LAUNCHED FOR GRAY OF DELEWARE

DESIRE FIGHT INSTEAD OF
DESIRE TO LEAD DEMOCRATIC
TICKET BUT MIGHT TAKE
SECOND PLACE.

ON ANTI-INJUNCTION PLANK

Strong Fight Certain in Committee
on Resolutions and Possibly on
Floor of Convention.

Denver, Colo., June 30.—Although
candidates for the nomination for
vice president on the democratic tick-
et are numerous, and despite the
fact that their number is likely to
be largely increased before a choice
is actually made, it is the general
opinion among leaders of the party
who are now here that if George Gray
of Delaware will declare his willing-
ness to accept the second place on
the ticket he can have it.

Joshua Marvel of Wilmington, Del.,
manager of the Gray presidential
campaign, who arrived in Denver to-
night, will not, however, give his
consent. He insists that the Delaware
man is a candidate for first place, and
when it has been settled that he
can not have first place it will be
ample time to place him in running
for the secondary position provided
he cares to take it. Mr. Marvel de-
clines, however, that Judge Gray will
be satisfied with anything less than
the head of the ticket.

It is well known that Mr. Bryan
would be pleased to have Judge Gray
for the vice presidential candidate,
and the only thing that prevents the
latter from becoming a leading candidate for that position is the simple but all-powerful fact that he will
not declare himself to be a candidate at all.

The Gray presidential boom was
formally launched today and headquarters were opened in the Savor
Hotel. They were arranged some
hours in advance of the arrival of
Mr. Marvel, and during the early
part of the afternoon a corps of expert bill stickers were going about
the hotels putting up lithographs of
the Delaware candidate. No other
pictures have been produced as yet,
and the Gray men secured the most
prominent places in the lobbies of
all the leading hotels. The head-
quarters were thrown open after the
arrival of Manager Marvel, but be-
cause of the late hour at which he
put in an appearance the Gray boom
was not put into active operation. By
tomorrow, however, it is expected to
be in full swing.

The Johnson headquarters will not
be opened for several days and the
date on which the Bryan banners
will be thrown out has not yet been
determined, but it will be Saturday
or Sunday after the arrival of the Nebraska delegation.

Strong Fight Certain.

It is certain that there will be a
strong fight in the committee on res-
olutions, and possibly on the floor
of the convention itself over the anti-
injunction plank. Word has come in-
directly from Lincoln that Mr. Bryan
is in favor of a plank of a somewhat
radical nature, and it is certain that
such men as Roger C. Sullivan, National committeeman from Illinois,
and Chairman Taggart of the Nation-
al committee are strongly opposed
to it. Sullivan gave out yesterday a
statement in which he favored "equal
right before the law" and used other
expressions of a similar charac-
ter, which were construed to mean
that he was opposed to a strong anti-
injunction plank. Sullivan denied that
he intended to convey the impres-
sion that he planned to fight the anti-
injunction plank, but it is generally
believed that he is against extra language in the part of the resolution.

Chicago, Ill., June 30.—Tomorrow
there will be distributed throughout
the United States a total of $195,000,000,
made up largely of semi-annual
payments by public corporations,
such as railroads, large industrial
concerns and banks. This immense
volume of money, cut loose from
one end of the country to the other,
it is believed will start a great busi-
ness revival.

It is expected to lead to widespread
investments and general improve-
ments and will have a beneficial and
bracing effect in many ways. One important feature is that railroads will
have no trouble in getting funds for
improvements and work is being
for thousands of idle men. At the
present time the situation is peculiar
not only in the United States but in
all the great monetary centers of the
world. Money has never been more
plentiful. A large part of the money
is in gold.

The excess reserves in all the large cities are now at the highest in
the history of the country. Money
rates are exceptionally low for any
good collateral and any enterprise
that is honest can easily be financed.

ACKNOWLEDGES THE CORN.

Kansas City Star sees Gloom and Breakers on the Republican Road to Success.

An editorial on the Kansas City Star of June 19 under the caption: "The Standing of Mr. Bryan in His Town and in the Country," contains the following which looks pretty good to a Democratic paper in Oklahoma.

"The changed attitude of Lincoln Neb., toward its foremost citizen, Mr. William J. Bryan, as told by a correspondent of the Star in yesterday's issue, has more than a local significance. It was inevitable that Lincoln should have regarded Mr. Bryan's first nomination to the presidency as a freak of politics. The town knew him only as a precocious orator, a 'spellbinder,' belonging to a class of politicians many of whose members make passing successes with superficial eloquence, arousing contempt among the thinking for the very reason that they have an irrational influence over the unthinking. Even in those days Mr. Bryan was not a mere 'spellbinder' but he had not yet demonstrated superior gifts. He had accomplished nothing to stamp him as a man of uncommon parts. His success in the Chicago convention was regarded by his fellow citizens of Lincoln as mere luck—good luck for him, bad luck for his party.

"Even now it cannot be said that Mr. Bryan has done anything of commanding importance. Of course, he has not had official power. He has no opportunity to put his policies into effect. On the other hand he has made innumerable speeches and has published a paper. He is better on his feet than with his pen—a good deal better. But in general Mr. Bryan has shown only the adaptability of the earnest plodder. However, his plodding has been upward. He has become steadier. He is much less the demagogue than he used to be. He is less insistent on his personal views. It is not in his nature to compromise on what he regards as essential principles, but he has learned the lesson of conciliation as a means of political success, and has come to realize that party success is essen-

Newspapers and Primary Law.

Guthrie, Ok., June 23.—How Oklahoma newspapers are meeting the
new primary election law, requiring
that all political advertising shall
show who is ordering it, who pays
for it and the price paid, is best told
by notices which has appeared in
the Chickasha Express and the Ada
News. The Chickasha Express re-
ceived an article from Speaker Murray indorsing the candidacy of Representative Riddle of that town for
re-election to the house of representatives. It prints at the head of
the article the following:

"This article is inserted at the request of Hon. W. H. Murray and is
paid for by A. S. Riddle at the commercial rate of 5c per line or $1.40
for each insertion."

The Ada News takes another view
of the situation and carries at the
head of its political announcement
column the following:

"Complying with the freak law that
it shall indicate at the head of any
political announcement or article or
advertisement of any political candi-
dacy, whether charge is made and if
so, that the amount be specified, it is
stated that no amount is charged nor
will be accepted for the political an-
nouncements printed in this column."

If your advertising today were of
some other store than your own,
HOW WOULD IT IMPRESS YOU?
Can you see your advertised self as
others see you?

Weak Kidneys

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak
nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ
itself, but in the nerves that control and guide
and strengthen them. Dr. Shoop's Restorative is
a medicine specifically prepared to reach these
controlling nerves. To doctor the Kidneys alone,
is futile. It is a waste of time, and of money as
well.

If your back aches or is weak, if the urine
scalds, or is dark and strong, if you have symptoms
of Bright's or other distressing or dangerous kid-
ney disease, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative a month—

do for you. Druggist recommend and sell.

diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be in-

doctors pronounced it a local disease

Hospitality is largely to be found in the development of this universal self within each one of us. There is little need to advertise our friends to care for the individual self, with the important desires of the eye and the acquired tastes of the mind. That part of our life is in no danger of neglect. But here is the larger—the life we share with others—the one all-embracing life of God in which our lives exist as the life-giving sap flows out of the tree, flows in different leaf and branch and leaves may fall, but not because our leaves have lost universal sympathy with the tree and become severed from it. With those things that appeal mostly to the physical and intellectual life, but they are always seeking a larger realization of themselves in human brotherhood. Such a life has no sorrow, plenty of time if you suppose, since the larger our life is the more opportunities there are for pain to enter it. Yet the men and women who live such lives—and who is not blessed by the friendship of such—are they not to be called

Heat prostrates the nerves. In the summer one needs a tonic to off-set the customary hot weather Nerve and Strength depression. You will feel better within 48 hours after beginning to take such a remedy as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Its prompt action in restoring the weakened nerves is surprising. Of course, you won't get entirely strong in a few days, but each day you can actually feel the improvement. That tired, lifeless, spiritless feeling will quickly depart when using the Restorative. Dr. Shoop's Restorative will sharpen a falling appetite; it aids digestion; it will strength the weakened Kidneys and Heart by simply rebuilding the worn-out nerves that these organs depend upon. Test it a few days and be convinced. Sold by G. M. Ramser.

According to present indications Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois will have a warm fight on his hands for re-election to his present office, as the friends of Congressman George E. Foss are urging him to become a candidate. Senator Hopkins succeeded William E. Mason in 1903 for the long term, having been a member of congress from 1895 up to that time. He is a graduate of Hillsdale, Mich., college, and is 62 years old.

HERE'S THE SIMPLE LIFE

COLONY PLANNED BY G. H. ANDER, IN MEXICO.

Little or No Clothes Will Be Worn by Followers—Says Life Will Be a Dream Instead of a Nightmare.

New York.—A "Simple Life Paradise Colony," where men, women and children will go about naked and where the men are never to cut their hair or beards, will be started this fall near Vera Cruz, Mexico, by Gustaf H. Ander, well known in the socialist and anarchist circles in this city. More than 50 persons have become his followers and have promised to sail for the tropics when he does.

Mr. Ander is spreading "simple life thoughts" and "paradise breezes," giving the plans for this unique colony, throughout the country, and expects by September 1 to collect at least 500 colonists who have the same "free" ideas that he has.

will get rid of all the clothes that we can," Mr. Ander said. "Of course, some of us will hold on to a few bits, naturally. But before long, when we have all become pure in heart, we will have no need for even fig leaves."

"A person, I have observed after careful study, is always more healthful when he allows the air to circulate over skin, and we intend to turn out the healthiest, happiest human beings in the world. What good does all this clothing we wear do?"

"Your body is now so choked up with starched clothing that fresh air cannot get to it. Then, too, there will be an enormous saving of time by not making clothes and the hours that would be consumed in that occupation can go to developing ourselves aesthetically."

For more than two years Mr. Ander allowed his hair to grow so that he shall be supremely fit for the colony. His beard falls to his waist and his hair, when unrolled, to the middle of his back.

"All of our men will refuse to cut either their beards or locks," he continued; "it is an insult to the laws of nature to do otherwise. Hair is for some use. Otherwise, why was it given us?"

"I have concluded that hair must be in an intangible sort of way useful in communicating with the spirits around us. At all events, a lot of time is wasted in cutting hair. I presume that the women by not braiding their hair will save a lot of time, too."

"There will be no cooking to speak of. We will live on nuts and fruits. When fruits are not in season we will have to eat vegetables. But a student of nature can see that man was never meant to use anything but produce from the trees. Our walking upright shows that we were meant to reach up for edibles. If we were built like cows, then we might be expected to feed from the ground. Besides, there is very little effort required in raising fruit and nuts."

"Each colonist will be allowed to raise what he pleases. For example, I personally desire to raise coconuts. Six acres accommodates 200 coconut trees, and as each tree drops about one a day, I should have about 70,000 coconuts, each having an exchange value of 1 cent."

"In fact, life will be a dream instead of a nightmare. There'll be no cooking and little washing. All women will have to do is to love and sleep."

"The state, which is a poor name for the colonists' official assemblage, will decide who are fit to be men and wife. Men and women will be united with a view to begetting the finest children. If the offspring does not turn out as it should, then the parents will be remoted."

"There will be no limit on children in this colony. Each couple will have as many babies as they want! They won't have pigs to raise, so they may devote their attention to youngsters. These won't have to be fed or clothed any more than pigs, so they won't be much trouble."

"We won't even have to bother to name the children. What good is a name except in competition and business? We won't have any books to keep."

"We have developed to the degree that we can get along without depending on lower creatures, such as horses, cattle, pigs, and chickens, for support."

"No, we will not even have cows; at least, that is our present view, for every drop of milk we take means robbing so much from the calf."

"Tobacco and liquor may be used if any one wishes them. But people will become so clean lived when they get close to nature that they'll not want stimulants."

"I am making an attempt to get some inebriate millionaires to go down south with us, so they may become respectable human beings."

"Our colony will be located probably near Vera Cruz, where there are 50,000 acres available. The site is on the banks of a navigable river and the gulf of Mexico is close by."

James Eads How, the millionaire hobo, is among those interested in Ander's scheme. Mr. Ander is a Swede and was a government clerk in Sweden.

"A love for gambli' was born about the time that human nature first opened its eyes. A disposition to steal somethin' was born just a few moments before, but a man may gamble and not be a thief. There is such a thing as an honest gambler—that is, a gambler who is willing to give a man a fair chance—to lose his money. The gambler wants your money, and it ain't much trouble for him to accommodate his conscience as to the way he gets it. If he is sharper than you are he compliments himself with the fact that he understands his business, and every man that has a trade likes to know its details better than the other man does."

Thus spoke old Limuel to a few friends who were gathered about the fireside in the Jucklin home. The wind was howling and the snow, like shredded sheets, was flying past the windows.

"But you don't believe that all gamblers are thieves?" remarked old man Brizintine.

"I said I didn't. But there ain't nothin' that will strain a man's honesty more than gambli' will."

"That's been preached on many a time," Brizintine spoke up. "But I never gambled in my life, and—"

"And you don't know just how far you are honest," Lim broke in.

"Didn't think you did," replied Jucklin. "But I can explain. The man that gambles has more temptations to steal than any other man. When he has lost everything a strong resentment arises against life. It is almost impossible for him to believe that he has been fairly beaten, and if he is broad enough to acknowledge this he then questions Fate for her one-sidedness. He wants to know what right she's got to discriminate so against him."

"Unfortunately for man, work was put on him as a curse. The fact is, it ennobles him, but he accepted it as a curse. And when his brother has committed a crime, not grave enough to hang him, he says: 'I will sentence you to work.' In the olden times a man that worked wasn't respected as much as the highwayman. They banged the robber, it is true, but they respected him more than they did the man that handled the hoe. And the gambler is a sort of social highwayman. I don't say he is a bad fellow. In many instances he persuades himself to believe that his profession is right. He puts up his money, takes chances, and if he wins he has come by the money as honestly as if he had dug in the ground for it—he thinks. And as long as he wins he may be honest. But his principles undergo a change when he begins to lose. Then he can't help feelin' that he is givin' the other fellow too much show. When he has lost all he must have money in order to carry on his business. Suppose he is employed to collect money—suppose he is in a bank. If he refrains from takin' money to gamble with he is honest—desperately honest, you might say. And he may refrain day after day—for years; but some day he may find himself weak. This weakness may consist of an overconfidence in self—in an overabundance of hope, in a faith that he will win and can pay back. Right there he is gone. Think you are strong enough to stand such a temptation as that, Brother Brizintine?"

"I would not use any man's money," Brizintine answered. "I surely have sense enough to know what is my own, and knowing what is not my own I have honesty enough not to take it."

"What! do you mean to say I don't know whether or not I'm honest?"

"Do you know, Brother Jucklin?"

"Well, I'll tell you just how far I know. Many years ago I was workin' at a mill that took in a good deal of money. Finally they gave me charge of it. Along about that time a party of us used to meet two or three times a week to play a social game of poker. It got to be so sociable that it kept me broke. I knew that it was largely a game of luck and that the cards would break even after awhile, and that may be true. In the long run, but the run is too long. In the course of a thousand years they might have broke even, but as it was, they broke with just enough promise to hold me tied in fascination to the game. I began to borrow money—and it took all of my wages to pay it back. One night I went over to meet the boys. I didn't have a cent of my own, and I wouldn't have gone if I hadn't thought that some one would lend me enough to get into the game. But everyone hemmed and hawed and spoke of the extreme need for money, of hard times and the like—the very men who had week after week got all of my wages. Just then I flashed across me that in my pocket were more than a hundred dollars belongin'

to the mill. With this amount as a backin' I felt sure that I could win back some of the money I had lost. It was perfectly plain—I could do it. At some stage of the game I had nearly always been ahead, but wouldn't quit. But why couldn't I quit? The other fellows jumped, and with my money. Why couldn't I do the same? I broke out in a sweat. I strove to bring up arguments against my sittin' in the game and couldn't. Luck whispered that it was with me, and it didn't seem possible that I could lose. Never before had I felt so strongly that it was my night. I arose and walked up and down the room. I could hear my blood singin'. I turned and looked at the boys, each one with an expression of eagerness on his face. I felt myself superior to them. I could beat them. There they sat, completely within the power of my skill and my luck. I could win enough to pay back the money that I owed, and with my wages I could buy clothes—and I needed 'em. Suddenly I rushed out of the house, and I ran—ran all the way to the home of the mill owner—snatched his money out of his pocket and gave it to him. I told him what I had gone through with, and he turned pale and took hold of the mantelpiece to steady himself. 'My son,' said he, 'I have been all along there, only I didn't run away—until afterward. They caught me and brought me back, and it was only by the grace of—of human nature that I didn't go to the penitentiary.'

In the company there were three

young fellows. The old man's recital had moved them. "And did you play again, Uncle Lim?" one of them inquired.

"No, I didn't. And although it may appear narrow in me, but let me say that a playin' card shan't come into my house. In itself a deck of cards is innocent enough, and so is a bottle of hickory if you don't drink it. It is true, though, so far as my experience counts, that nearly every gambler begins in a social way, without any thought of becomin' one. Very few of them get out with the aim to make gambli' their profession. Take horses, for instance. Nearly all men like a fine horse—like to see him run. They develop a judgment as to the runnin' qualities of a horse and finally are willin' to back it up with money. Whose business is it? The money belongs to them and was honestly earned. Understand, now, I ain't preachin' a moral sermon for I ain't fitted for that. I just want to talk in a human nature sort of way for the benefit of these boys. Don't bet on anything. That's the safest plan. If there's no fun in goin' to horse races unless you bet, don't go."

"But haven't you bet on roosters?" old Brizintine inquired, looking wise.

"Well, I have seen the feathers fly from the wrong chicken," Lim answered. "And if I have bet, and have seen the evil of it, I am all the fitter to talk to these young chaps. Boys, if you don't want to be on trial all your life, don't bet on anything."

HILD—Papa, what is a New Yorker? Papa—My child, a New Yorker is one who lives in New York—who has his residence there. A New Yorker may be a Chinaman from Pell street, or a Polish Jew from Rivington street, or a Syrian from Washington street, or an Italian from the Italian quarter, or a Greek or Jap or Swede or any nationality at all, provided he lives in New York city.

Child—Well, suppose a Russian lives in Brooklyn.

Papa—He is a New Yorker.

Child—Well, if a Portuguese lived in the Bronx?

Papa—He would be a New Yorker. Of course, my child, in a large sense, all inhabitants of the state of New York are New Yorkers, but, generally speaking, by the term New Yorker is meant one who lives in the city of New York, and that is why a Chinaman out on Staten Island is a New Yorker.

Child—Papa, does a man have to be a foreigner in order to live in New York?

Papa—What a question, my child. Of course not. There are many living in New York whose native language is English.

Child—Oh, they were born there?

Papa—Not necessarily. Some were born in Great Britain and Ireland and some in the British possessions, but they all speak English and they live in New York and are New Yorkers.

Child—Then, if I understand you aright, my dear father, a man who lives in New York and who speaks English must have been born either in Great Britain, Ireland, or somewhere in the British possessions.

Papa—Not at all. There are native Americans who speak English and who live in New York.

Child—And where are they from?

Papa—Some were born in New England, some on the Pacific coast, some in the middle west and some in the south.

Child—Then they are the real New Yorkers.

Papa—Not necessarily. Any man who lives in New York for any length of time becomes a New Yorker, no matter where he may have been born. When he travels he registers from New York.

Child—Is it in the air?

Papa—It is in the air. The westerner despises New York until he has made a fortune, and then he comes to New York to spend it, and after that he is a New Yorker. The southerner who has come to New York to live may say that he was born in the south, and if he doesn't his tongue will do it for him, but he glories in being a citizen of New York. The New Englander feels that he has honored New York by coming to it and that without him New York would not amount to much, but he, too, signs

his name in the register as from New York.

Child—Well, papa, you have told me about foreigners who were New Yorkers, and about English-speaking people who were New Yorkers and about Americans who were New Yorkers, but I want to know if there couldn't be a more perfect kind of New Yorker than any of these—one who was born in New York and who spoke English?

Papa—Why, yes, my child; there are thousands born in New York who speak English. They are hard and fast New Yorkers. Their parents were Germans and Italians and Frenchmen and Jews and Greeks, but they were born in New York and they speak English.

Child—Then, papa, they are the real New Yorkers, aren't they?

Papa—Well, I believe that they are considered to be the most patriotic New Yorkers because their New Yorkism is so new; but, my child, in this city of which we are speaking, this city of nearly 4,000,000 inhabitants, there is a little class, without much influence, to be sure, but still self-respecting and respected by others, a mere handful, it is true, but a very intelligent handful.

Child—And who are they, papa?

Papa—They, my child, are the native American New Yorkers, whose parents and grandparents and great-grandparents, to the third and fourth generation, were born and brought up in New York.

Child—And who always spoke English?

Papa—Well, no. They spoke Dutch originally, but they have spoken English longer than the majority of the rest. Those are the real New Yorkers.

Child—I never heard of them. Where do they keep themselves?

Papa—One of them is the president of the United States.

Child—Oh, yes, of course. So he is a Simon-pure New Yorker?

Papa—Well, no; come to think of it, he isn't, because I believe his mother was a southerner.

Child—Well, do the Simon-pure New Yorkers sign their names as from New York?

Papa—Yes, my boy, they do, and they would like to be able to sign in a special colored ink to make it more emphatic.

Child—Well, papa, I suppose that if they could have kept out the foreigners and the English-speaking aliens and the Yankees and the southerners and the westerners, and just left New York for the real born and bred New Yorkers, New York would be even greater than it is?

Papa—No, no, my boy. No city ever gets to the top of the pile unaided. It is because of all these people who have come in to show New York how to misgovern itself that she is the greatest city on the western hemisphere and is destined to be the greatest city that the sun ever shone upon.

Child—And what will become of the real New York New Yorkers?

Papa—They will disappear after a while.

Child—Why, papa?

Papa—Because it is getting to be the fashion to be born in the country.

Child—Oh!

GIRLS TO SACRIFICE SCALP.

Will Contribute Skin and Hair to Aid Unfortunate Fellow Worker.

New York.—So that Miss Catherine Gorman, cashier in a department store in Brooklyn, may come out of the hospital with a full head of hair, more than a hundred department store girls will sacrifice from a quarter to one inch of scalp each, with long, flowing locks attached.

Miss Gorman's hair caught in a cash register May 15 and most of it was pulled out by the roots. Physicians at the hospital at first suggested a wig as the best means to cover the bare spot on her head, but she objected to this and it was decided that the grafting process should be tried. Her friends in the store readily consented to supply the necessary pieces of scalp. Girls with hair nearly the color of Miss Gorman's will be the first to make the sacrifice, but the physicians say it will be impossible to get all the hair alike. So after the new scalp has healed they will dye the hair any color Miss Gorman may desire.

It is expected that it will take a year to complete the operation, as only small portions of the new scalp will be put on at a time. As soon as one piece begins to root another of the same size will be taken from another volunteer, and so on until the operation is completed.

BASEBALL WINS HIM VOTE.

Judge Grants Naturalization Papers to Well Posted Fan.

Norristown, Pa.—Because he knew the positions of all the clubs of the two major baseball leagues the naturalization court judges, sitting here, considered Edward Wilhelm Lawrence sufficiently versed in American institutions to be worthy of full citizenship.

Oddly, too, despite his middle name, Lawrence is a native of Ireland, from which country he came 36 years ago, and has been living in Norristown the greater part of that time.

Having answered the test questions propounded by the government expert, and having manifestly acquainted himself with general affairs, the baseball situation was taken up, and Lawrence made a home run in proving that he was a good American.

SENIORS GREAT KISSERS.

160 Princetonians Admit the Soft Impeachment.

New York.—The annual statistics of the Princeton senior class of 200 show that 27 claim to be engaged, and there are two "Has Beens." Thirty-six have been arrested, and 160 confess that they have kissed girls. Seven have supported themselves wholly through college; 158 in part.

The favorite girls' college is Wellesley, with Radcliffe second. The most popular professor is Harry Garfield, who goes to Williams next fall. The honors in the class rest with the president, Chalmers Hamill, who is selected as the most popular, the most respected and the most polite. McCormick, Harlan and Connors come in for honors as the athletes in the three major sports.
